2016 KPGA PRO-PRO SERIES

The Kentucky PGA Pro-Pro Series has been created to provide members and apprentices with more playing opportunities and enhanced tournament experiences. The Series is made up of four separate events that you can play in with a variety of partners. A feature of the Pro-Pro Series there is a series long series team competition. Series teams are determined by a blind draw from a pool of all those who “opted in” when they signed up for their Players Card by May 1. Before the draw, the pool will be divided based on past playing performance so the series teams will be equitable. It is expected a Series team will be approximately 10 players and the KPGA Tournament Committee will assign a captain each Series team. It is each captain’s role to ensure as many of his team plays in each pro-pro series event.

A series team earns points based on how their players finish in a pro-pro series event. Participation points are awarded so performance and participation is critical to a series team’s success. The series team with the highest overall point total wins the series purse (winner take all), which will be split equally with each member of the team.
