Throughout the last couple of years, I have spent a lot of time on the golf course. I have been working my way up in the rankings, trying to get better and better and compete with the top junior players in the country. Last year, I was able to accomplish all of my goals, and one of the many reasons I was able to do this was through the help of the Gay Brewer, Jr. Fund.

The money that I received last season helped me to get into many of the AJGA open tournaments, and at the end of the season, I even received invitations to the Justin Rose Junior All-Star Invitational and the Rolex Tournament of Champions. I had a great season last year, and I am hoping to do just as well or even better this year.

If I were to receive money from the Gay Brewer, Jr. Fund, I would be able to play in many more events this season, and I would hopefully be able to receive more invitations to bigger tournaments through my play in a few opens. This fund really did go a long way for me and my family last year, and I am very appreciative to have been a recipient.

In addition to bettering my ranking these last few seasons, this grant has allowed me to earn attention from many Division I golf programs, and I recently made a verbal commitment to play at Louisiana State University. Although I have earned a college golf verbal offer already, this grant would provide great financial help to me and my parents. Having been a recipient last year, I now have some perspective on just how far the support from these grants can take me.

My parents have always promised that they would do their best to help me accomplish my goals, but with golf there is huge financial commitment. The last couple of years have been difficult for my parents after dealing with a job loss. Even though things have been tight, they continue to make my golf opportunities a priority whenever possible. The help we received last year definitely offered a lot of opportunities I would not have otherwise been able to take advantage of. Soon I will be in college and the financial obligations for my golf will be much less, but now I still need to play in high level tournaments as much as possible and improve as much as I can. If I am fortunate enough to receive any financial assistance this year, I will take full advantage of the opportunity.

With the help from this grant, I am hoping to continue my success as a junior golfer and carry it into the next level of competitive golf. I have numerous goals set for this season, and the financial help of the Gay Brewer, Jr. Fund will definitely give me an opportunity to achieve my goals and better myself as a person and as a junior golfer throughout the season.

Thank you for your consideration.

Parent Narrative – Gay Brewer Jr. Grant

Please once again consider our son, Drew Doyle, for a 2018 Gay Brewer, Jr. Grant. Drew was recipient of funds from this grant last year during the 2017 golf season, and there are no words to describe how much the financial assistance helped. Everyone knows golf is an expensive sport, and the expense for juniors at the highly competitive level is substantial. The assistance we received last year allowed us to live up to our commitment to help Drew achieve his goals on the golf course.

We have always promised him that we would do everything we could to give him the opportunities he earns on and off the course. Drew has risen well above our expectations over the past few years. Not only has he accomplished the goals he set for himself, he has stayed humble and he keeps working hard and setting higher goals. He is an accomplished young golfer, but he is also an excellent student. He is involved with service at St. Xavier, he has many friends, we require him to have a summer job to contribute to his golf expenses and most of all, he is a respectful and grateful young man. We attribute much of this to the lessons he has learned through the game of golf.

Drew is the youngest of three children. Our oldest son, Brendon, is graduating from Indiana University this spring after playing four years of Division I golf. He was also a recipient of the Gay Brewer, Jr. Grant when he was in high school. We know the financial assistance he received was instrumental in securing a college scholarship. Our daughter, Olivia, will be a junior at the University of Kentucky in the fall. All three of our children attended Catholic High Schools, and they were all involved in sports and extra-curricular activities. We have made many sacrifices to give them opportunities and experiences we value, with education and golf at the top of the list.

Several years ago, we suffered an unexpected job loss resulting in losing of more than half our household income. We considered taking our kids out of private school and eliminating many other financially draining “extras,” such as competitive golf, but we made the decision to keep investing in our children. There were many lean times, and still are as we rebuild our financial lives, but we have never regretted making that decision.

We know there are many players who deserve financial assistance from the Gay Brewer Jr. Grant, but we are still asking for your consideration. We believe Drew is a great candidate, and he will make the very most of any opportunity he is given. We also know he will always remember and appreciate how much people in his own community helped him achieve his dreams and goals. He will no doubt give back to his community any way he can.

Thank you for your consideration.
John and Lori Doyle
